OFFICIAL ANNOUNCEMENTS. Army and Navy to Go Into Mourning-Federal Offices to Close Friday. WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.-In general orders issued to-day, announcing the death of ex-President Hayes, Major-general Schofield directs that "on the day of the funeral, at each military post, the troops and cadets be paraded and this order read to them, after which all labors for the day will cease. The national flag will be displayed at half mast. At dawn of day thirteen guns will be fired, and afterward, at intervals of thirty minutes, between rising and setting of the etn, a single gun, and at the close of day a national salute of forty-four guns. The officers of the army will wear crape on the left arm and on their swords; and the colors of the battalion of engineers of the several regiments, and the United States corps of cadets will be put in mourning for a period of six months." Acting Secretary Soley, of the Navy Department, issued similar orders to the navy. It is in accord with the wishes of the family that the usual military honors be omitted at the funeral. The military escort for an ex-President includes nearly the entire strength of the army, so its omission on this occasion means a great deal. A number of army officers have been directed. however, by the Secretary of War to pro-ceed to Fremont and attend the funeral. Orders have been issued by Gen. S. S. Yoder, commander-in-chief of the Union Veterans' Union, to the effect that each department headquarters and precinct command place a becoming evidence of mourning in their respective halls for thirty days and take such steps as they may deem appropriate to hold at an early date memorial services. Secretary Charles Foster, Postmastergeneral Wanamaker, Secretary Noble and Secretary Rusk left here at 11:30 this morning for Fremont to attend the funeral of ex-President Hayes as the special representatives of President Harrison. They were accompanied by Fourth Assistant With the exception of Representa tive Haynes, the Ohio delegation will not attend the funeral. Senator Sherman found that his presence was needed in Washington, and Representative Enochs, who was in General Hayes's brigade durang the war, is not in very good health.

The White House and all the executive departments were draped in mourning today, and will wear their sable emblems of sorrow for a period of thirty days. All the departments will be closed to-morrow. Secretary Foster, of the Treasury Department, to-day issued an order closing all the sub-treasuries' and customs offices throughout the United States on Friday, Jan. 20, the day of the funeral of the ex-President.

H. Clay Evans, acting Postmaster-general, issued the following order to-day: As a mark of respect and in recognition of the Nation's loss in the death of Gen. Rutherford B. Hayes, late President of the United States, all postoffices are ordered to be closed during the funeral, between the hours of 2 P. M. and 5 P. M., Friday, Jan. 20.

WOMAN'S TRIBUTE.

One of the Dead Ex-President's Warmest Friends Says Kind Words About Him.

CLEVELAND, Jan. 19 .- While in Cleveland ex-President Hayes always made his headquarters at the home of Mrs. L. C. Austin. Mrs. Austin's husband, Mr. Linus Austin, was a cousin of Mr. Hayes, and was for years the confidential friend of the ex-President, and before Mr. Austin's death Mr. Hayes visited him and his family ten. The two families were very intimate, and after Mr. Austin's death Mrs. Austin invited Mr. Webb C. Hayes, the second son of the ex-President, to make his home with her. The invitation was accepted, and since then General Hayes had an additional incentive for visiting at the home of Mrs. Austin.

In speaking of Mr. Hayes's connection with her family Mrs. Austin said: "Gen. Hayes was a very rare man. He was bright and sunny in disposition, and never depressed, for he invariably looked upon the bright side of affairs. I never heard him say an unkind word, although frequently there was every reason for a rebuke in his dealings with other people. He never failed to say something in palliation of an offense. He possessed a very kindly nature, that was at once sympathetic and genial, and which, with so strong a character, seemed an unusual combination. He took the greatest pride and comfort in his war experience, and I believe the period be spent in the war was the most satisfactory of his He never wearied of recountthe scenes and adventures he passed through during that time, and we have spent many happy evenings listening to his stories. He was greatly attached to his wife, and her death was a cruel blow to him, yet I can hardly tay that he lived an unhappy life during his last years. On the contrary, he seemed to be always in a happy frame of mind, engrossed as he was e many benevoten enterprises with which he was connected. He made many trips to different parts of the country in the interest of those projects, and always had a good time. I have frequently asked him on his return from had proved, and he nearly always assured me that he never had a better time. He possessed to an eminent degree the faculty of enjoying himself, and it was his way to enter fully into the spirit of every occasion. He had various interests in Cleveland, and many of his visits were partly on their account.

Proclamation by Governor McKinley. COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 19.-Governor Mc-Kinley to-day issued a proclamation to the people of Ohio, which, after announcing the death of ex-President Hayes and paying a eulogistic tribute to his public and private life, recommends that flags on all public buildings and school-houses be put at halfstaff from now until after the funeral, and that, upon the first opportunity after the funeral, the people assemble at their respective places of divine worship and hold memorial services. As a mark of respect the Governor ordered that on the day of the funeral the executive office be closed.

Legislatures Show Respect. Resolutions of respect to the memory of ex-President Hayes were adopted, yesterday, by the legislatures of Ohio, New York, Illinois, Missouri. Pennsylvania. Maine, New Hampshire and Massachusetts.

To Prevent Sunday Opening.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—Senator Petti-grew, chairman of the quadro-centennial committee, introduced a bill in the Senate to-day instructing the Secretary of the Treasury not to deliver any of the souvenir coins provided for in the bill passed at the last session until the World's Columbian Exposition shall deliver a good and suffisient bond, conditioned that if, for any teason whatever, the world's fair is opened to the public on Sunday the corporation mall pay to the United States the sum of noney it shall have received from the sale of the coin, not less than $2,500,000. Mr. Pettigrew also gave notice that he intended to offer this as an amendment to the sundry civil bill.

Two Candidates for the Black Veil. St. Louis, Jan. 19.4 At 2 o'clock this afternoon two novices were received at the St. de Chantel Academy of the Visitation. They were Miss Laura Burke, of this city. and Mrs. Hayward, of Cincinnati, a wellknown vocalist and elecationist in that city. The two suppliants were given the habit this afternoon, and in a year's time will be permitted to take the vows and as-sume the veil if they so elect. Archbishop Elder, of Cincinnati, who is particularly interested in Mrs. Hayward, had come from Cincinnati to officiate at the services.

Mr. Blaine's Condition. WASHINGTON, Jan. 19 .- Mr. Blaine's physician, who visited him about 9 o'clock this evening, reported no material change in Mr. Blaine's condition. He was then, the doctor said, resting easily and hal passed a comparatively comfortable day. There seemed to be some improvement so far as his physical strength is concerned. The doctor will not return to-night unless the family call him.

CRONIN CASE REOPENED.

Decision of the Cook County Court Reversed and a New Trial Ordered.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. OTTAWA, Ill., Jan. 19.-The State Supreme Court to-day, among other decisions, banded down an opinion in the Cronin murder case, in which the court reverses the decision of the lower court and remands the case for trial. The decision is nearly 20,000 words in length, and it does not, as might have been expected, go into the matters of evidence or into the question of the guilt or innocence of the prisoners, but deals directly with the chief point at issue, namely, whether or not the two jurors were qualified to act upon the case. In deciding that these men-Bontecon and Clark-were not qualified to act as fair and impartial jurors, the court goes to great length, and Postmaster-general Rathbone, representing | in its opinion cites a long list of authorities the Ohio Republican Association of this | from its own previous decisions and the decisions of courts of other States It says: "The jurors, Bontecon and Clark, we believe, expressed the holding of opinions in their examination in the lower coupt, and though the impression may seem to have been slight, it was, nevertheless, sufficient to prejudice the minds of the jurymen upon the particular point. From the opinions cited, taking them altogether, it is plain that the rule in this State, excepting so far as it is modified by the statute, is perfectly well settled that, if a juror has formed a decided opinion upon the merits of the case either from personal knowledge of the facts or from statements or rumor, and the opinion is positive, he is disqualified. No case can be tound where a juror, after admitting the existence in his mind of an opinion of that character, has been permitted to establish his own competence by testifying that he can, or will, render an impartial verdiet. Such has been uniformally held disqualification per se. The incompetency of the juror follows as a necessary legal consequence, which is incapable of being rebutted. A jury should stand indifferent between the parties. Neither should influence its judgment or swerve it from strict impartiality."

> The court, therefore, remands the case, so far as Coughlin is concerned, to the Criminal Court of Cook county for re-trial. Another dispatch says: "Daniel Coughlin, the only man living of the three who were sentenced to pass their lives within the prison walls for the murder of Dr. Patrick Cronin, is probably a free man. The verdict which condemned him was to-day set aside Coughlin will in all probability go free because it will be practically impossible to convict him again. The witness Patrick Dinan, who swore that Coughlin hired from his livery stable the white horse which carried Cronin away to his death. died many months ago. His evidence was the main thing which led the jury to declare that Coughlin was guilty of conspiracy to murder. Three of the four men who stood trial with Coughlin-John F. Beggs. Patrick O. Sullivan and Martin Burke-are dead. Kunze was to all intents and purposes acquitted, and cannot be tried again. With all his alleged companions in the conspiracy out of the way, the State's attorney declares he can hardly convict one man of conspiracy, and a direct charge of murder was not proven against Coughlin in the first place. So now the glee of the prisoner and of his attorneys is unbounded over the prospect of the convicts' freedom and the probability for them of a triumphal end of one of the most celebrated and sensational murder trials that the world has ever known."

CONFIDENT OF ACQUITTAL. Talk with Coughlin at the Penitentiary-Did Not Expect a Decision So Soon.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. JOLIET, Ill., Jan. 19.—It was 2:30 o'clock this afternoon when the first news of the decision of the Supreme Court reversing | apolis a few days before going East. the decision of the lower court in the Cronin case, and granting a new trial, reached the prison. Daniel Coughlin, the only survivor of the three men who received life sentence as the resuch journeys as to how pleasant the trip | sult of the first trial, was at work in the shop when a telegram from his representative at Ottawa was handed him. He had not expected the decision of the court so soon, although he has frequently expressed confidence that when the case was taken up the finding would be in his favor. This firm belief has prevented the depressing effect the death of his companions, Burke and O'Sullivan, might have had upon him, and the favorable turn in the famous case found him in good health and spirits. He was relieved of the hard labors of the stone shop, and put to work as a nurse in the hospital. Coughlin expressed gratification at the prospect of being able to prove his innocence of any complicity in the murder of Dr. Cronin. He reiterated the statement that Burke and O'Sullivan were as innocent as he, and almost his first words were expressions of regret that death had deprived them of the opportunity of taking part in the new trial, which he is sure will result in their complete exoneration and the removal of the stigma cast upon their families. When interviewed, this evening, Coughlin said: "It was a total surprise to me, as ! did not expect a decision of any kind until March, and when I read the telegram and saw the decision I made up my mind that at the next trial I would be given a fair show. The past three years' confinement at the prison has been a long and dreary time to me with nothing to cheer me up. But to-day I once more feet that I may again become a free man. I am innocent and know nothing of the Cronin murder. I have been wrongfully punished. but at present I have nothing to say one way or the other in regard to the matter. I have not seen Forrest since O'Sullivan died last spring, and know nothing as to what steps he has taken to get the decision."

As soon as papers arrive Coughlin will be taken to Chicago by the sheriff and placed in jail until the new trial takes place. It is thought he will be taken to Chicago to-

MR. RILEY HOME AGAIN.

Forty Nights' Ovation Through the West and on the Slope-Visits Joaquin Miller

Manager W. C. Glass, who has been leading James Whitcomb Kiley a chase of forty nights along the Pacific coast, arrived in Indianapolis with his charge last evening. "We have been in the land where they spend dollars with almost as much lavishness as your Indiana farmer sows his clover," said Mr. Glass, speaking of the trip. "Generous, warmhearted and sociable to a degree, far beyond courteous hospitality, the average Californian reminds one more of Indiana than perhaps any other in the United States. It was a perfect ovation for Mr. Riley from the night we opened in Davenport, Ia., Nov. 14, until our round-up at Minueapplis, last Saturday night. At Denver we met the Rev. Myron W. Reed, who hadn't seen Mr. Riley since their European trip together. Mr. Riley gave haif the people who desired seeing him. It amounts paid into the State treasury, reception in the beautiful city more than requited the tiresome journey. There we found ourselves in the midst of a veritable Hoosier colony. All knew Mr. Riley, and had been looking forward to his arrival. The coast people, too, appeared to be as familiar with his works as were the people from Indiana, and the two nights in Los Angeles were a repetition of the Denver reception. Mr. Riley was entertained there by the California Club, a wealthy and pretentious organization, and by Major Bowenbrake, formerly of Fort Wayne.

"We spent ten days in all at San Francisco, giving three entertainments to the most flattering houses, Josquin Miller came over from his famous country-seat, 'The Heights,'situated far up the coast range back of Oakland with, a beautiful view of the city, bay and Golden Gate stretching out below, and then carried off Mr. Riley and a party to his mountain eyrie for a day's entertainment. From there we gave entertainments along the coast up to Portland, Tacoma, Seattle and Olympia, Washington's capital. In all those places we met Indiana people who have gone West and risen to wealth and influence, all of whom vied with one another to do honor to Mr. Riley. it being his first trip to the coast. At Tacoma ex-Congressman Calkins, formerly of this city, gave him a reception, as did also the Union Club, At Seattle we met Judge Will H. Thompson. brother of Maurice Thompson. Returning eastward, we stopped at Helena and Duluth. At Minneapolis the reception was simply wonderful. Salvint had the other opera-house, but we turned hundreds away. I may say we did not have a bad night during the whole time." Mr. Kiley gives a delightful sketch of his visit to the home of "the poet of the Sierras," where he lives in delicious seclusion with his charming mother in all the simplicity of a shild. The hos took his visitor to his den, decorated with a valuable and novel collection of Indian relics and souvenirs from everywhere. One of his treasures is the gaudity harnessed skin of the rare three-legged bear. With all the weird trappings of an Indian medicine man Mr. Miller barnessed bimself and went through an immitation of the mystical incantations to produce rain. Presently the rain began to pour on! the flat, fustic roof of the queerly constructed, camp-like home, and looking out the little window the party saw it was actually raining on the outside. With all the solemnity of a medicine man Mr. Miller conducted the dance, and but for his simple smile at their confusion the guests could not have guessed he was perpetrating a huge joke. When they left the little house it was explained that the rain came from an ingenious system of irrigating water pipes by which the gen-tle poet conducted a never failing supply of pure spring water over his lofty farm. Mr. Riley will remain in Indian-

MAKING POLITICAL CAPITAL

Democrats Claim to Have Found Something Wrong in a Republican's Books.

Discrepancy of $16,000 to $18,000 Per Annum Said to Exist in the Accounts of Ex-Auditer Pavey, of Illinois.

SIRINGFIELD, III., Jan. 19,-The first official act of the Democratic Attorney-general of Illimois has been to draw up a legal document, making formal demand upon the Republican ex-Auditor of Public Accounts Pavey for the cash-books and records of disbursements of the insurance department, For many years one of the subjects of political discussions in Illinois campaigns has been the disposition of fees received in the insurance department. The act of the General Assembly creating the insurance department of the Auditor's office and providing for its maintenance, contains a clause that the net amount of all fees over and above the cost of performing clerical labor connected therewith shall not exceed $5,000, and any amount above that sum shall be paid to the State Treasurer. The common interpretation of this has been that the State Auditor is entitled to $5,000 per annum, in addition to his $3,500 salary and in addition to that which he has the right to deduct as expenses of maintaining the insurance department. The Democrats, however, never conceded this interpreta-

During the months preceding the late election it was the common assertion of Democratic orators throughout the State that the examination of the Auditor's office would develop grave irregularities, and it is perhaps the remembrance of these charges which to-night gives so much credence to the astounding assertions that between the amounts coltwo entertainments there, and left without | lected in the insurance department, and was a long jump to Los Angeles, but the | there will be found, unaccounted for, the startling discrepency of $16,000 to $18,000 per annum, reaching back, perhaps, to 1876. It is asserted that the new Auditor, Gore, made the discovery tha the books showing the expenditures of the insurance department of the Auditor's office have been taken away, and search developed the fact that similar records extending as far back as 1876 are gone.

A correspondent to-night secured a wire to Mount Vernon and had a talk with ex-Auditor Pavey. Replying to questions, he said he had turned over all the public records to his successor. The cash and bank - books retained he regarded as private property. When told about the assertion that a discrepancy of $16,000 to $18,000 per annum would be found to exist in the office accounts, Pavey said there was no occasion for any such statement, and that he would start for Springfield to-night. The receipts, he said, would show the disposition of all funds received. Attorney-general Maloney, when told of Pavey's assertions about the books, said if they were purchased by the insurance fund and used in the assurance department they are the property of the State, and, if so, he would take legal measures to force Pavey to turn them over.

Too Old for Cleveland's Cabinet. NEW YORK, Jan. 14.-In reference to the men who may possibly form a part of Mr. Cleveland's Cabinet, the World says: "It a Democratic national committeeman, who had a long talk with President-elect Cleveland within the last week, speaks by the book, a great surprise is in store for those who have thought themselves experts at forecasting cabinets. The leader in question declared that the oldest man in the Cabinet could be John G. Carlisle, and he would be Secretary of the Treasury beyond peradventure. In other words, Mr. Cleveland, in choosing his little family of advisers, would select, as far as possible, comparatively young men. Senator Carlisle is barely fifty-eight years old. Should the rule be regarded rigidly some of the distinguished men who have been named as probabilities, as well as possibilities, will have to be wiped off the slate." The World includes in its list of statesmen who are too old to sait Mr. Cleveland the following: Senators Morgan and Ransom, Representatives Herbert and Blount, John Randolph Tucker, Edward J. Pheips and Isaac Pusey Gray.

"PLAIN MISS GOULD."

A Daughter of Jay Gould at School in Boston-Her Identity Concealed.

It is not generally known that Miss Annie Gould, the youngest daughter of Jay Gould, is in Boston for the year. Before her father died he expressed a wish that her education should be completed in this city. At the beginning of the school year, therefore, Miss Annie was placed with the Misses Gilman, at their home school for young ladies, on Commonwealth avenue. She is said to be a faithful, industrious scholar, working especially hard at music and French, and wishing to as every other girl at the school. A very pretty story is going around to the effect that the Misses Gilman very sensibly decided when the daughter of the multimillionaire came to them not to let that fact be known until it could no longer be concealed. Accordingly she was introduced as Miss Gould, and began her school life exactly the same as any ordinary girl would do.

be considered on exactly the same footing

As none of the forty or fifty other girls knew who she was, she became acquainted in the ordinary school-girl fashion, and nobody stood in awe or was jealous, as might have happened had the teachers been less sensible. This state of affairs continued for a week or two, she being known as plain Miss Gould. Finally, one day, one of the girls carelessly asked: "Are you any relation of

Jay Gould's?" "I am his daughter," was the simple, quiet answer. The effect on the other girls was electrical. Some of them went to Miss Gilman. so they say, and asked: "Why did you not tell us she was Jay Gould's daughter, and not let us make such a mistake?" "I did not think it pecessary when you came," was the reply, "to tell the school how much money your fathers may be worth. Why should I in Miss Gould's TENDER lungs cannot long withstand the irritation of a violent cough. They first become inflamed and then tuberculated, unless the mischief is arrested. One bottle of Hale's Honey of Horebound and Tar will generally cure the worst cough and prevent all danger. Sold by all druggists.

Pike's Toothache Drops cure in 1 minute.

BABIES ON FIRE.

Babies burning up, babies in agony from itching and burning eczemas and other torturing, disfiguring, itchi g. burning, bleeding, scaly and blotchy skin and scalp diseases. None but mothers realize how these little ones suffer when their tender skins are literally on fire. To know that a single application of the Cuticura Remedies will in the great majority of cases afford instant relief, permit rest and sleep, and point to a permanent and economical (because most speedy) cure, and not to use them is to fail in your duty. Think of the years of suffering entailed by such neglect, years not only of physical but of mental suffering by reason of personal disfigurement. Why delay a moment longer the use of these great skin cures. blood purifiers, and humor remedies? Cures made in infancy and childhood are speedy, economical, and almost invariably permanent.

Sold everywhere. Price: Cuticura, 50c; Soap, 25c; Resolvent, $1. Prepared by Potter Drug and Chemical Corporation, Boston. "All About the Skin Scalp and Hair," 64 pages, 300 diseases, mailed free.
